High Performance Composite Solutions

Company Overview

Every food and beverage facility, whether it produces dry baked goods, fresh meat or bottled soft drinks shares the same basic unit operations. They mix, heat, cool, dry, cook, package and distribute food. This means that every plant engineer must tackle the same basic issues: sanitation, safety and facility longevity.

To meet stringent FDA and USDA requirements every surface of a food and beverage plant must be cleanable and sanitary. Walls, ceilings, floors, platforms, equipment and structures all require non-porous, easy to clean surfaces. In addition, these surfaces must withstand frequent high temperature wash downs or steam cleaning as well as exposure to aggressive cleaning solutions. Spillages of liquids, fats and oils along with large volumes of water from wash downs create the need for durable, slip resistant floor and grating surfaces.

Only StonCor can provide a total system solution for all of your coating, lining, flooring and structural requirements.
